

Figure 1. Scatter plots showing the relationship between the number of employees and the number of employees for various countries. The x-axis represents the number of employees, and the y-axis represents the number of employees. The plots are arranged in a 4x4 grid, with each plot representing a different country. The countries represented are: Australia, Austria, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Korea, Netherlands, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, Taiwan, Thailand, United Kingdom, and the United States.